Pro Fide et Patria: Anglicanism and Ecclesiastical Architecture in Central and Southern Africa, 1848-1903

Citation for published version:

Link:
Link to publication record in Edinburgh Research Explorer

Document Version:
Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Published in:
Ecclesiology & Empire:

General rights
Copyright for the publications made accessible via the Edinburgh Research Explorer is retained by the author(s) and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing these publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

Take down policy
The University of Edinburgh has made every reasonable effort to ensure that Edinburgh Research Explorer content complies with UK legislation. If you believe that the public display of this file breaches copyright please contact openaccess@ed.ac.uk providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.
Cover: All Saints Cathedral, Allahabad, India (1870-87) by William Emerson
Above: Tiger gargoyle from All Saints Cathedral, Allahabad
Above right: St John the Baptist, Buckland, Tasmania, Australia (1846) by BC Carpenter and Rev. FH Cox
Right: Dutch Reformed Church in Beacon, New York, USA (1859) by FC Withers

Inside page, from top to bottom:
St Bartholomew, Kaiapoi (near Christchurch), New Zealand (1854) by Benjamin Mountfort
Christ Church Cathedral, Stone Town, Zanzibar (1873-78) by CF Hayward and Rev. Edward Steere
St John’s Mission Church, Mbweni, Zanzibar (1882) by Rev. Edward Steere

Ecclesiology & Empire
Victorian church design outside the British Isles, 1830–1910
A SYMPOSIUM ON SATURDAY 6 NOVEMBER 2010, 10AM TO 5.30PM
ORGANISED BY DR ALEX BREMNER, UNIVERSITY OF EDINBURGH

Please send me tickets at £50 each until 10 September, or £60 each from 11 September.

PAYMENT Please enclose a cheque made payable to The Victorian Society or complete your credit card details below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TITLE, FIRST NAME, SURNAME OF ALL ATTENDING</th>
<th>CARD NO.</th>
<th>EXPIRY</th>
<th>CSC</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ADDRESS</td>
<td>SIGNATURE</td>
<td>ISSUE NO. (MAESTRO)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>POSTCODE</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EMAIL ADDRESS</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TELEPHONE</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CANCELLATIONS will be accepted and fees returned only until Tuesday 5 October 2010, but will be subject to a £10 deduction per ticket for administrative costs.

DISCLAIMER: You participate in our events at your own risk, and neither the Society nor its officers or servants accept any liability of any kind whatsoever, howsoever arising. The Victorian Society reserves the right to cancel, alter or postpone events if necessary.

The Victorian Society is a Registered Charity No. 1081435 and a Company limited by guarantee. Registered in England No. 3940996. Registered office as above.

SUPPORTED BY THE PAUL MELLON CENTRE FOR BRITISH ART, THE JEREMY BLACK BEQUEST AND PRIVATE DONORS
The rise of the Gothic Revival in Britain during the mid-nineteenth century coincided with Britain's emergence as the world's leading economic, industrial, and imperial power. The territorial expansion of Britain during this period led to the migration (forced and voluntary) of British peoples and culture across the globe, whether as convicts, free settlers, merchants, soldiers, or colonial administrators.

An important aspect of this phenomenon was the increasing emphasis placed on religion and the Christian character of society. Church missionary organizations—whether Anglican, Catholic, or Nonconformist—were most active during the Victorian period, proselytizing colonials and indigenes alike on a scale not seen before or since.

Anglicans and Catholics, in particular, placed great importance on the erection of 'correct' church buildings in aid of this mission. Their concern for architecture was influenced heavily by the newly-developed principles of 'ecclesiology' stemming from the theories of AWN Pugin and the publications of the two university architectural societies in Britain.

As clergymen and their architects spread throughout the British Empire, they took these ideas with them, erecting unprecedented numbers of churches and cathedrals that both reshaped and reformed the landscapes and societies in which they were located.

The symposium brings together several of the world's leading experts on the rise of ecclesiology in the former British Empire (and beyond). The papers will explore the different ways in which Christian architecture was studied and advanced outside the British Isles as architects and clergymen were forced to adapt to unfamiliar and testing environments (climate, culture, materials).

As a whole, the papers will provide an engaging account of how architectural ideas and practices were carried and implemented abroad during a significant period in the history of British architecture, thus situating the development of the Gothic Revival in a wider global perspective.

The Victorian Society is grateful for the support of the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art, the Jeremy Black Bequest, and private donors.

The symposium brings together several of the world's leading experts on the rise of ecclesiology in the former British Empire (and beyond). The papers will explore the different ways in which Christian architecture was studied and advanced outside the British Isles as architects and clergymen were forced to adapt to unfamiliar and testing environments (climate, culture, materials).

As a whole, the papers will provide an engaging account of how architectural ideas and practices were carried and implemented abroad during a significant period in the history of British architecture, thus situating the development of the Gothic Revival in a wider global perspective.

The Victorian Society is grateful for the support of the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art, the Jeremy Black Bequest, and private donors.

Practical Information

Venue: The Art Workers' Guild, 6 Queen Square, London WC1N 3AT.

Date and time: Saturday 6 November 2010. Doors open at 9.30am. The lectures start at 10am, and the first break will be for lunch at 12.30pm. Coffee may be obtained before the event from many cafes in the vicinity.

Tube: Holborn or Russell Square

Tickets: £50 each until 10 September, or £60 each thereafter, including a sandwich lunch and afternoon tea. Booking essential.

Chairman Michael Hall

'Solemn Chancels and Cross Crowned Spires': Pugin's Antipodean Vision and its Implementation

Brian Andrews Heritage Officer, Archdiocese of Hobart, Tasmania

Pro Fide et Patria: High Anglican Architecture in Southern and Central Africa

Alex Bremner Lecturer in the History of Architecture, University of Edinburgh

'The Most Cheerless of its Seats': Ecclesiology in Atlantic British North America

Peter Coffman Assistant Professor, Carleton University, Ottawa

William White in South Africa and Madagascar

Gill Hunter Independent Scholar, England

The Technicolor Meeting House in England and America

Michael J. Lewis Professor of Art, Williams College, Mass., USA

The Ecclesiology of Expediency: Primitive and Portable Churches in the New World

Miles Lewis Professor of Architecture, University of Melbourne

Antipodean Ecclesiology: Church Building in New Zealand, 1840–1875

Ian Lochhead Associate Professor in Art History, University of Canterbury, New Zealand

Indian Hands in the British Empire: Developing a 'Correct' Ecclesiastical Architecture in India?

Su-Lyn Seah Newnham College, University of Cambridge

‘We bestride the narrow world like a Colossus’

_The Ecclesiologist_ (1845)